SENIOR CLASS OF HENDERSON HIGH SCHOOL
HENDERSON, N. C.

Foreword

THE souvenir craze is one of the oldest in human history. Biblical warriors brought home souvenirs from the battlefield. Ancient excursionists to Rome carried away mementos of their visits. The crusaders lugged back caravans of reminders from the land of the Saracen and Napoleon seemingly tried to carry home most of Egypt.

Realizing that we cannot live forever in the happiness of High School days what more could we wish than a record of our joys and sorrows as well as of progress to be used as a souvenir in years to come, to keep alive the precious memories and intimate friendships of four happy years?

Continuing the custom of our dear Alma Mater, Henderson High School, we present this, the fourth volume of the Per-Pac as our attempt at a reminder or souvenir.

"Make new friends, but keep the old. Those are silver, these are gold Friendships that have stood the test, Time and change are surely best."

Dedication

TO THE FATHERS

OUT of genuine admiration and love for them and grateful recognition of their labors, we dedicate this fourth volume of the Per-Pac to our fathers.

From the days of our dimmest memories they have guided our footsteps with unselfish love, tireless devotion, and sacrifices unsurpassed.

The achievement and nobility of one generation awaits fulfillment in each succeeding generation.

"They without us should not be made perfect." In honoring them, we honor ourselves.

Class Poem

OUR life is at a turning—
How swiftly the years have sped!
And now in our hearts is burning
A zeal for what lies ahead.

Before we start upon the road,

Let us glauce back to those days so dear,

That we may remember all the joys

Shared in Alma Mater's sphere.

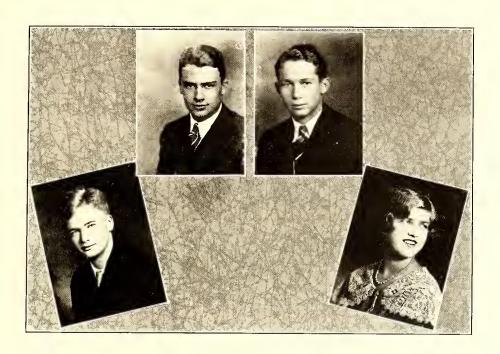

Surrounded by happiness on our way,
With the best of teachers to guide,
Our course we've followed from day to day,
And won success on every side.

So many happy days we've spent
With our Alma Mater dear,
And though to others her care is now lent,
May she still in her love hold us near.

And though we part today, dear friends,
May our friendship never sever,
But may our memories always be brightened
By the days we've spent together.

"H. O." believes his studies to be a necessary evil, and passes them, not by hard work but by using his head—for his cranium houses a fine mind (sarcasm). You're our best all round student "H. O.," and we wish you a life as successful as your years in school have been.

BRICE FONVILLE

Tom is a valuable person to the Senior Class. He never worries about the trifles that perplex his classmates, yet he is reliable and business like at all times. He certainly did do his part in making our Halloween Carnival a big success. We all know him as a great artist and expect to see him rival Bud Fisher some day.

CLARICE GRISSOM

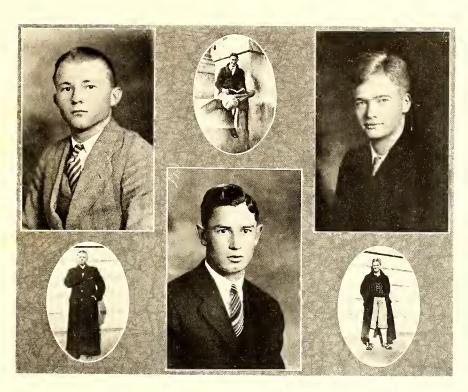

Clarice is one of those few girls who are blessed with an even temper. She has never been known "to fly off the handle." "A friend in need is a friend indeed"—and such is Clarice—quiet and unassuming. Clarice, we wish for you the best of everything in your future life.

WITH THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF

VIRGIE L. GARRETT

Her quiet and unassuming manner tends to fool one into believing that she sees only the serious side of life. But all of her classmates know that she is a combination of gentle dignity and good humor. She has been a loyal class member and a friend to us all. Our best wishes are yours, Virgie.

Doy is our dashing basketball hero. He is also foremost in football and baseball. He is always cheerful and ready to amuse the class at his own expense. Although he never worries about his studies he always comes out with a good margin. Doy's brilliant remarks have indeed helped us through many of our dreary classes. Here's to Hagwood!

ISAAC W. HUGHES, JR.

Maria Maria Maria

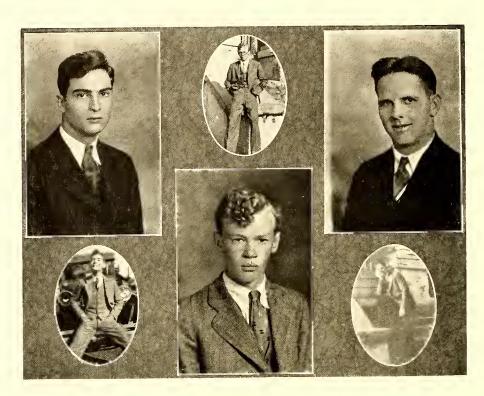

Activities—A. A., '26, '27, '28, '29; Monogram Club, '28, '29; Class Secretary, '26; Class President, '27; Class Vice President, '28; Class President, '29; Class Musiciau, '27; Teunis Club, '27, '28; Hi-Y Club, '26; Orchestra, '28, '29; Football, '27, '28.

Isaac, our class president, better known as 'Ike," is noted for his unfailing good lumor and ready smile. Another outstanding characteristic is that he never allows anything to warry him. Truly his large number of genuine friends has been gained by his all round personality. He is exceedingly bright and stands out as one of the ablest students in his class.

GUY T. HORNER, JR.

Activities—Maury High School, Norfolk, Va.; Henderson High School, '28, '29; A. A., '28, '29; Tennis Club, '28.

Yes—Guy is just what he looks like—a jolly good sport. He has learned that study and pleasure don't mix, so he has chosen the one that causes him the less worry. He is liked by all the class, and we give him our sincere wishes for a successful future.

WILLIAM H. JOYNER

Activities—A. A., '26, '27, '28, '29; Hi-Y Club, '26; Monogram Club, '27, '28, '29; Football, '26, '27, '28; Basketball '27, '28, '29; Baseball, '28, '29; Tennis Club, '27, '28; Assistant Advertising Manager PEP-PAC, '29.

"Snooks," our worthy half back, is one of our best athletes, and stars in football. As assistant advertising manager of the PEP-PAC he has been very faithful to his duties. "Snooks" never lets anything worry him, not even his love affairs. Because of this characteristic we are sure he will find happiness in the future.

JESSE B. MATTHEWS

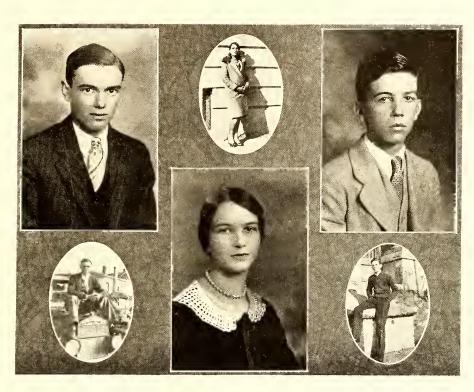

Activities—A. A., '24, '25, '26, '27, '28, '29; Basketball, '25, '26, '27, '28, '29; Baseball, '26, '28; Monogram Club, '25, '26, '27, '28, '29.

The manner in which Jesse carries himself and the attitude which he takes toward his work are good indications of his character. When it comes to intelligence, he is on the plane with all of us, and when the final whistle blows in the game of life, Jesse can well say "I have done my best."

Hubert M. Lewis, Jr.

Activities—A. A., '26, '27, '28, '29; Football, '27, '28; Monogram Club, '28, '29; Tennis Club, '27, '28; Orchestra '28, '29.

Hubert is one of our hardest working students. He is willing and ready to help in the activities of the class, and school as a whole, and we do not fail to call on him. If more of us were like him the teachers' worries would be fewer than at present. We wish you all kinds of good luck, Hubert.

ALVIN H. NUCKLES

Activities—A. A., '26, '27, '28, '29; Hi-Y Club, '26; Class President, '26; Football, '26, '27, '28; Baseball, '27, '28, '29; Monogram Club, '27, '28, '29; Tennis Club, '27, '28.

As our Freshman Class President Alvin piloted us through a successful year. After this he turned his attention to athletics. He never excelled in any particular sport, but was always willing to do his bit in the backfield, on the gridiron, or on the mound for baseball. His place will be hard to fill in the school and on the athletic field.

W. K. PHILLIPS, JR.

Activities—Wakeland High School; A. A., '26, '27; Declamation Contest, '27; Heuderson High School, '28, '29; Declamation Contest, '28.

To those who may have only a casual acquaintance with W. K., he possibly appears never to have a care about anything. He really is not lazy, but he simply refuses to put out any surplus energy, being an advocate of conservatism. He is really a hard worker—when it comes to reading detective stories.

LENA RUTH PAGE

Activities—A. A., '26, '27, '28, '29; Basketbal', '27, '29; Girls' Glee Club, '28, '29; President Glee Club, '29; Tennis Club, '27.

Lena Ruth has never let her studies interfere with her social life. Though she has heavy work this year she has had plenty of time to be a good sport and to give us part of her time. We think ourselves fortunate indeed to call her our friend. Good luck to you, Lena Ruth.

ALBERT POWELL

Activities—Pittsboro High School, '26, '27; H. H. S., '28, '29; A. A., '28, '29; Pootball, '27, '28; Monegram Club, '28, '29.

In the football line Albert defended a gap wide enough to keep two men busy. He is a quiet unassuming fellow but when called upon for duty he is all ready to serve. His courageous manner is not only noticeable in outside activities, but also in the classroom, for he always puts forth an earnest effort to master his lessons. Although he has been with us only two years he has become one of us.

MERLE ROBINSON

Activities—A. A., '26, '27, '28, '29; Girls' Glee Club, '28, '29; Girls' Athletic Association, '28; Tennis Club, '27, '28; Hiking Club, '27.

Merle is a full fledged member of the class of 29, as she has been with us for all four years, and has done her bit in everything that would help H. H. S. Merle is a friend to all and is always ready to help in our class activities. Altogether, the Senior Class just couldn't get along without Merle.

ELMER C. POWELL, JR.

Activities—A. A., '26, '27, '28, '29; Tennis Club, '27, '28; Hi-Y Club '26; Assistant Art Editor Per-Pac, '29.

Without Elmer the class of '29 would not be complete. He is always carefully dressed—voted the neatest in the class—a treasured friend and a jolly good fellow. Oh yes! he can draw. He is always willing to make posters for our senior activities. We wish you all kinds of prosperity in the years to come.

REBA SINGLETON

Activities—A. A., '26, '27, '28, '29; Girls' Glee Club, '28; Tennis Club '27, '28; Hiking Club, '27.

Reba is a jolly good sport, always your friend at work or at play. She never worries over her lessons. "Surely I am going to the show tonight," and at the end of the month we find that she has made a good mark on every subject. Reba, the best wishes of '29 are yours.

VIRGINIA STAINBACK

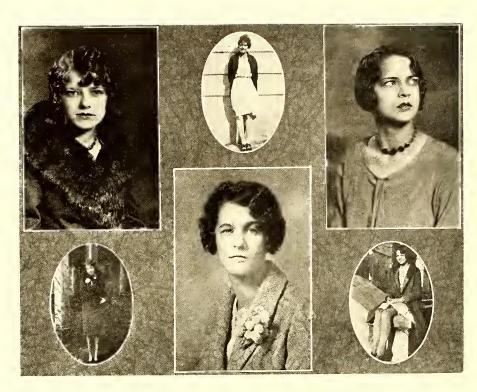

Activities—Red Oak High School, '26, '27; H. H. S., '28, '29.

When Virginia joined our class during our Junior year she made friends with everyone at the very beginning. It is seldom that you see a girl with an even temper and sweet disposition like that with which Virginia is blessed. We are sure that she will gain as well as give much joy in life.

FOLSOM SMITH

Activities—A. A., '26, '27, '28, '29; Girls' Athletic Association, '28; Basketball, '26, '27, '28, '29; Monogram Club, '27, '28, '29; Tennis Club, '27, '28, '29; Tennis Club, '27; Class Athletic '26; Most Athletic, '29; Sponsor Football, '29.

We all know "Smitty" as an athlete and good sport, ever ready to aid in any well deserving activity. She also realizes the serious side of life, as can be clearly seen when examination time draws near. Here is a girl who will find happiness in everything.

MARY CATHERINE SWAIN

Activities—A, A., '27, '28, '29; Girls' Glee Club, '28.

Mary is our pal. Although she is a little girl, she never fails in what she undertakes to do. We believe that this same ability to attain success will go with her in after life, and we trust that she will think of her classmates of '29 as often as we shall think of her.

CLAIR ELIZABETH VAUGHAN

Activities—A. A., '26, '27, '28, '29; Tennis Club, '27, '28; Girls' Athletic Association, '28; Hiking Club, '27; Sponsor Baseball, '29; Most Popular, '29; May Queen, '28.

Turn to the statistics if you want to know what we all say about Elizabeth; the most popular girl in school. She has but one weakness; she always picks on people smaller than herself. However, the future looks bright, Elizabeth, and you have our best wishes in your undertakings—whether small or large.

KATHERINE R. TEAGUE

Activities—A. A., '26, '27, '28, '29; Marshal, '26, '27, '28, '29; Marshal, '26, '27, '28, '29; Class Vice President, '27; Sophomore Editor PEP-PAC, '27; Girls' Glee Club Pianist, '28, '29; Orchestra, '28, '29; Class Historian, '29.

Our "Kitty" is quiet, modest and capable. She pursues her studies in a calm manner and always has a ready answer for the numerous questions that are fired in her direction. "Kitty" may feel sure as she leaves H. H. S. she carries along with her the best wishes of her classmates for a successful

Here is to Amy, who during the four years in which she has passed quietly in and out of the class room with us has proved to be one of our best students. With all her brilliance however she is interested in class activities, and takes her part in the work and pleasure of our school life.

BERNADETTE PARKER WOODLIEFF

Behold our literary genius! She writes themes with an ease that makes the rest of us despair. When there is anything to be written we always turn to Bernadette. This is not her only admirable trait, for she is also a good sport and a true friend. Bernadette, we wish you a successful career.

Class History

SEPTEMBER 1925: FRESHMEN! Sixty of us, who had to endure the taunts and threats of the upperclassmen. Green, dumb, and all other uncomplimentary adjectives they applied to us, and made us wish we had never come to High School. Would we ever be treated as the others? At least we hoped so,—and sure enough we soon became a real part of the school and were not annoyed further. Realizing the need of organization, we held our first class meeting. Miss Julia Searcy was chosen as our sponsor, and the following members of the class as officers: Alvin Nuckles, President; Tom Garrett, Vice President; Isaac Hughes, Secretary; Ferebee Fenner, Treasurer.

Though our studies required the major part of our time, the social side of life was not forgotten. With a view to receiving more favorable consideration from the sophomores, as well as for our own pleasure, we gave them a Valentine party. Everyone seemed to enjoy the occasion, and the "trick" was turned with the sophomores, for in the spring they honored the freshmen with a picnic at the Washout. We had such a good time!—and at the close of the year every freshmen agreed that first year high school life was rather good fun, after all.

In September 1926 we returned to school as sophomores. Though our number was diminished to fifty-five, our "importance," in our own estimation, more than made up for the loss in number. Notwithstanding the sophomoric air of superiority over the freshmen, we did not treat them badly; but you know revenge is sweet, and we could not resist the temptation of playing some pranks on them.

This year we chose Miss Olive Kirby as our sponsor, and the following as class officers: Isaac Hughes, President; Katherine Teague, Vice President; Harry Bunn, Secretary; Ferebee Fenner, Treasurer.

Our class had the distinction of furnishing two members, Folsom Smith and Allene Lowery, of the girls' winning basketball team. Though our second year in high school was rather uneventful, we were anticipating great things when we became Juniors.

September 1927 found us Juniors. What a relief to know that we had successfully completed half of our high school course. This year a few of us tackled Cicero, but the majority, being "fed up" on Caesar's military campaigns, turned from the Roman to the romance language, French. When we were able to conjugate être we thought we knew everything, even more than la mère et le père.

Miss Julia Bethea, full of enthusiasm and in entire sympathy with all our plans, was our sponsor. Our class officers were: Harry Bunn, President; Isaac Hughes,

Vice President; Tom Garrett, Secretary; Ferebee Fenner, Treasurer. Truly the greatest event of the year was the Junior-Senior banquet, over which we worked so hard. How to raise money to defray the expense thereof was the great problem. Cake, pie and candy sales, together with a theatre benefit performance, put us in sight of the required amount, and the banquet at the Croatan Club rooms was a great success. Later in the year we were invited to the party at the Parish House that the Parent Teachers' Association gave for the Seniors.

Our class rings, received during the year, made us realize that we were approaching the final lap of our four-year course.

September 1928: At last we were Seniors. How wonderful! But the traditional sedate and dignified manner of Seniors was hard to assume. Our class now numbered only forty-four. Some who started with us had dropped out, while a few new ones had joined us.

Since every graduating class of recent years had published an Annual, we decided that our class must keep up the record. With Harry Bunu as Editor-in-Chief we hope to have the best annual yet produced by any class of Henderson High. Every Senior cooperated in the Halloween Carnival last October given for the benefit of the annual. We hope this experience signifies that such willing eooperation will be shown in anything and everything we undertake.

This year we set out upon our journey with a goal and a prize in sight—the goal, graduation—the prize, a diploma. We are yet striving toward this end, and hope that all who are trying will be successful.

This history would be incomplete without a mention of our beloved principal, Professor A. P. Sledd. He is really a part of our class, having begun his work here with our freshman class. His consideration, patience, and helpfulness during the period has indeed lightened our burden, and endeared him to each of us. May many more classes have the privilege and benefit of his wise counsel.

And now we close the story of our high school career and turn to the future. May all who so desire, be able to complete their college course, and may success crown the efforts of those who, upon completion of high school work, enter the various walks of life. One thing more,—may the friendships formed during these four years remain ever true.

KATHERINE TEAGUE, Historian.

Ten Years After Now

TEN years after graduation and my dream has come true. At last I am Feature Editor of the New York Times. What shall I write for my Sunday article? The latest revolution in Mexico! Lindbergh's flight to Mars? No, I am resolved to make my Sunday feature a write-up of my old classmates in High School—the Senior Class of 1929. Most of them are world-famous, but many of them I have not heard from in a long time, so my first task is to use the magic crystal which my friend, Monsieur Tellemright, the noted crystal-gazer, has loaned me. With this I am able to see anyone I wish and find out his occupation at this very minute.

I glance into the crystal and first behold a large hospital. Mildred Brown and Myrtle Bryant, in crisp white uniforms, are superintendents of Johns Hopkins Hospital.

All Coney Island is thrilled! Lena Ruth Page, now one of Mac's Bathing Beauties, is demonstrating her world-famous Parachute Dive two thousand feet through the air. She is poised on the wing of the plane and when this beautiful and graceful swimmer lands in the pool, the applause is deafening.

Hawaii is the next scene, and on the sands of the beach at Waikiki, I see Guy Horner, now United States Dancing Ambassador, teaching a group of Hula girls a few additional steps in their traditional dance.

I now view Paris, and find myself gazing in awe at a large room draped with dazzlingly beautiful silken hangings, work of the interior decorator, Annie Dunn. The room is one of the suite belonging to the beauty salons owned by Merle Robinson, who is an exterior decorator. While Merle and Annie are discussing the color scheme, in walks Gertrude Allen. She tells Merle that she has invented a new method of applying lipstick, and wishes to sell her the patent on it.

The crystal takes me back to America and my home town, Henderson. I see the new million-dollar high school, presented to the town by Harry Bunn, multimillionaire. It is a beautiful building, and I see Folsom Smith in the gym, for she is now Girls' Athletic Director. She is coaching the basketball team. "Smitty's" team seems to be a good one, for the bulletin board shows that they have won every game of the season.

Only a block from the school is the Perry Memorial Library. Who are those charming girls at the desk? They have a familiar look. Why, of course,—Virgie Garrett and Virginia Stainback! They are the new librarians. No doubt they received the inspiration for their occupations from Miss Simpkins, who was librarian when we were Seniors.

Across the street a large crowd is coming out of the court house. Alvin Nuckles has just been granted his third divorce from Katherine Young, due to the eloquence of that promising lawyer, Covie Clayton.

Farther down the street, I see a group of high school students crowded around a platform, on which Doy Hagwood is standing with a green book in his hand. He is gesticulating widely. He has the appearance of doing his Daily Dozen, but surely that is not the case! No, Doy is a book salesman! There he is, trying to sell those innocent students a New Interlinear Translation of Cicero's Orations which Doy himself has written.

Again the scene in Paris, and I behold William Joyner and Robert Faulkner speaking to several Frenchmen in their native language as fluently as any born Parisian. They are American Ambassadors to France. Probably Miss Hight's patient and long-suffering methods of teaching them French accounts for their occupation.

The campus of a large university is next reflected in the crystal. There is Virginia Allen, Professor of Psychology at Smith College, talking to an interested group of students. A large car drives up and out step Λ my Vick and Katherine Teague who tell Virginia that at last they are Congresswomen.

Again I see North Carolina, and this time Raleigh is the scene, and I behold Clinton Faris looking very much at home on the steps of the Governor's Mansion. Clint's charming personality and oratorical ability have won for him the position of governor of the Old North State.

The crystal carries me back to New York and a large theater is shown. I see Ruth Buchan, Rebecca Watkins, and Reba Singleton on the stage. They are doing "The Dance of the Nymphs" in Flo Ziegfeld's "Follies of 1939."

Another theater is shown, but this time it is the Metropolitan Opera House. Isaac Hughes is on the stage. He is making his debut and is being recognized everywhere as the greatest violinist since Kreisler.

A large church is the next scene and a bride and groom are at the altar. Under the veil of the bride I see the blushing face of Shirley Ayscue. She is entering the bonds of matrimony,—let us hope that her married life will be happy! But who is that solemn-faced young minister? Why, Albert Powell, who was a member of our Senior Class of '29! Well, Albert always was a serious-minded person, so I am not surprised at his profession.

Atlantic City is the scene of much excitement. The national beauty contest has just been held and I see a long line of contestants, headed by Elizabeth Vaughan, resplendent in a green bathing suit. She has just been chosen "Miss America." As one of the judges, I see Jesse Matthews, now famous as a judge of the Atlantic City Contests. However, that is not surprising, for Jesse always had an eye for beauty!

A tennis tournament is reflected in the crystal and the two players are Helen Wills and Hubert Lewis, who are battling for the world championship. Hubert is acclaimed winner and as he is presented the trophy, I am delighted that another of my classmates has won fame.

I see the interior of a famous modiste "shoppe" and am astonished to see Mary Swain and Laura Carroll as models. But after all, it is not so astonishing, for both of them are possessors of "It."

Hollywood if the next scene and Ferebee Fenner, now a famous movie star, is shown making a picture entitled "Beware of Brunettes." Ferebee believes that even blondes should defend their rights.

The crystal now shows the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Bryan Adcock registers at the desk and the people in the lobby whisper to each other, "There's Bryan Adcock, the famous cartoonist who's carrying on the comic strip of Bringing Up Father' now that George McManus has retired.

I now see the interior of a large laboratory. Elmer Powell, the professor of chemistry at Yale University, is busily working among the many test tubes before him.

On the outside of an imposing building is the following sign;

PHILLIPS SCHOOL FOR AMATEUR DETECTIVES

W. K. Phillips, Jr., President

W. K. is now a famous criminologist and is training ambitious youths to hunt down law-breakers.

Nicaragua is the next scene, and Brice Fonville, who is now a civil engineer, is in charge of the construction of the famous Nicaraguan Canal which the United States owns. This canal was begun during the second administration of Katherine Allen, President of the United States. She was a serious-minded student during her high school days, you know, so her election to the Presidency is only the result of hard work, patience and determination.

Mexico is reflected in the crystal and I see Ethel Woodlief and Clarice Grissom, teachers in a mission school there. A group of little Mexican children is gathered around their teachers and there is adoration in the eyes of each child.

The next place is a kindergarten and I behold Florence Faulkner teaching "The Little Red Hen" to a group of tots in one corner, while on the other side of the room Margaret Carter is playing "Ring-Around-the-Rosy" with some more children!

I now see a newspaper, and a picture of Tom Garrett is adorning one of its pages. Under it is the following inscription: "Tom Garrett, World's Heavyweight Boxing Champion, Endorses Lucky Strike Cigarettes." He says: "They do not irritate my throat,—they're toasted."

I have seen all my classmates in their various occupations and can hardly wait to see the Sunday edition of the Times, with the following headlines:

"Every Member of a High School Graduation Class of 1929 Wins Fame, Fortune and Happiness Within Ten Years."

THE task which faced our foothall mentor, Mr. Payne, at the beginning of the year was to say the least, appalling. The material with which Coach had to work, was for the part, light and inexperienced, but he plunged right into the task, and aided by the splendid coöperation, on the part of the players, soon placed on the gridiron a light hut formidable aggregation, which had a highly successful season.

"DOC" BLACKBURN: COACH, CHIROPRACTOR, AND BIG-BROTHER

Doc. Blackburn is a familiar figure among us, as well as among his fellow townsmen. "Doc." is just one of those fellows who loves football. He breathes it, thinks it, sleeps it, and, in fact, lives it. "Doc." has lived and worked among athletes all his life, and he was well known in athletic circles in his final position of this nature, at Wilson High School.

Several years ago "Doc." came to Henderson to establish himself in his practice here. His love for sports, and especially football, would not allow him to abandon the game entirely. Each session he has helped to whip our football squad into shape. This year he has been especially valuable serving as Trainer and Assistant Coach for the football squad. "Doc." has done this without any other reward than the satisfaction of helping boys to play the great game of football. "Doc." is a true sportsman. He lives the ideals of football as he attempts to put them across to the boys on the football field. "Doc." is a friend, a big brother, in every sense of the word, and he loves the boys and girls of H. H. S. "Doc.," we acknowledge our debt to you, and we wish to express our sincere appreciation for your help at all times.

REVIEW

Another basketball season has come and gone, and again the Hi "lassies" have swept through Northeastern Carolina, leaving in their path only desolation. With several of last years players missing, Coach Taylor had a difficult task, but she plunged right into it, and aided by the splendid coöperation of the team, put out as formidable a team as has ever represented Henderson High School on the basketball court.

THE SEASON

The current edition of the Henderson High quintet lived up to its name of "fighting bull dogs." Although the loss column of our schedule was top heavy, every opposing team went away knowing that they had engaged in a real basketball contest.

PROSPECT OF BASEBALL 1929

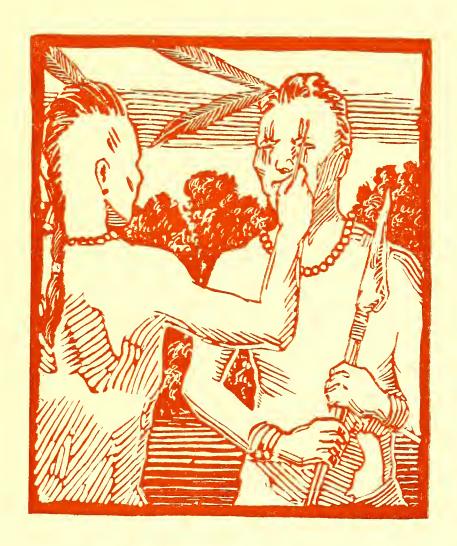

A^T this season of the year, when "old man winter" is just hobbling over the horizon, and the "sun of spring" is riding in the east, the thoughts of every red-blooded American, naturally turns to baseball.

And of course Henderson High School is no exception, so we will take this opportunity of discussing the prospects of the "bull dog" nine for the coming season,

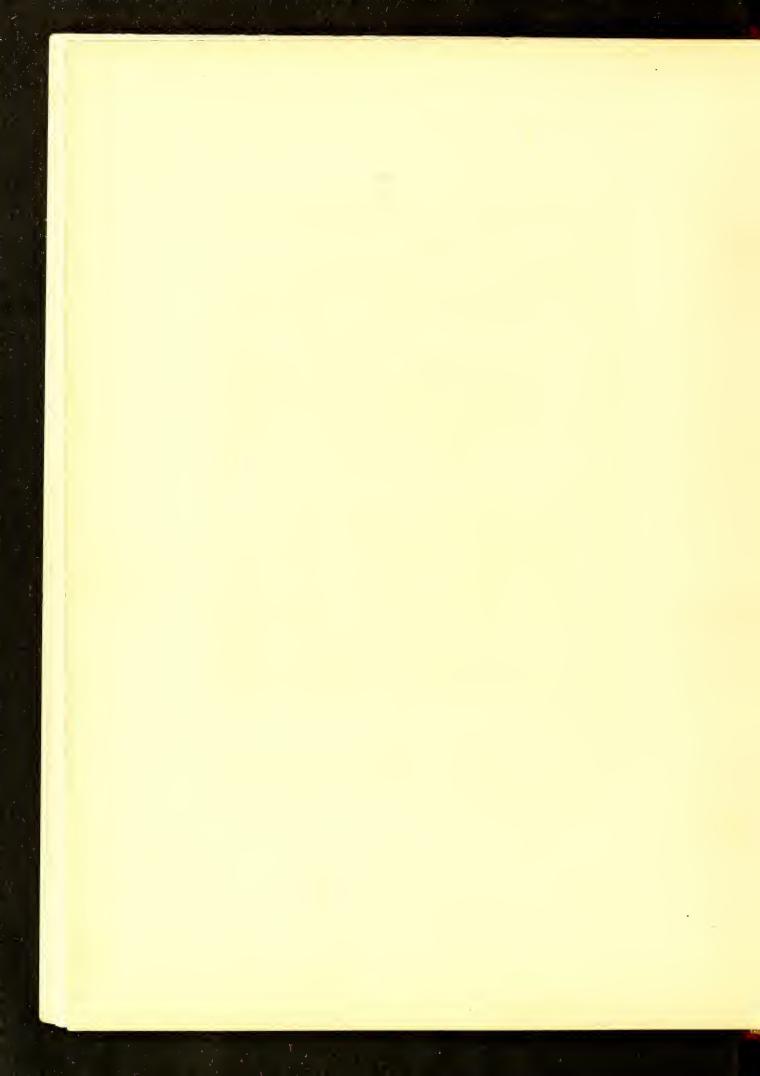

With practically all of last year's team, that fought its way to the semi-finals in the eastern championship intact, the prospects for a successful season are indeed very rosy. The "bull dogs" will have the same batteries, that performed last year, with the exception of Finch, who sang his "Swan Song." Hamm, will probably be on the receiving end, with Nuckles and Hight on the "chunking." Fox, last years initial sacker, graduated, but his shoes will be capably filled by Faulkner, who was last year a member of the Danville, Va. Higb, which copped the "Old Dominion" championship, last year, Hall and Clayton, and Joyner, will probably be candidates for the second base and short field. Kelly, will be back to resume his duties at the "hot corner." The out-field candidates will probably be, Church, Hagwood, Boyd, and Mathews.

In listing these prospects, only those that made an impressive showing last year have been mentioned, but a good many others will be out to furnish plenty of competition. A wealth of desirable material is expected from the Freshman Class.
